Barco solutions for houses of worship

Inspire and connect

Today's houses of worship engage their congregation and draw in new members with powerful messages that unite like-minded people, creating inspiring experiences that can be shared with both local and remote congregations. Exceptional moments and interaction make all the difference, today more than ever!

Powerful visuals to share your message

The integration of multi-media and video solutions in modern worship environments allows you to grab attention, drive engagement to a higher level, and leave a lasting impact.

The use of visual support significantly increases saliency and actively helps your audience to retain your divine message. But it also adds that extra dynamic layer to your sermon and makes it more appealing to your younger devotees.

Moreover, visual communication is an extremely powerful tool to spread your message even further. You can share uplifting moments with people from all around the globe by broadcasting your services.

Worldwide spiritual experiences with full participation.

Since the installation of the Barco projectors, our services have never looked better. And our congregation is so much more engaged than before.

360° experience

Your church or house of worship can be supported by many different forms of integrated visual technology.

Think of video content bringing messages to life visually and building stronger connections within your congregation. Large video walls behind the pulpit and displays within the sanctuary sharing prayers, lyrics or other information allow for increased engagement and active participation during the church services.

Relying on the right technologies can truly transform traditional homilies into 360° experiences.

High performance, deep connections

The way to achieve full participation is through outstanding visual performances.

With technologies that focus on the readability of your content in terms of contrast and colors, you can deliver a flawless viewing experience with sharp and smooth visuals for everyone, on any canvas, without any distractions.

Reliable equipment with easy and integrated workflows gives you the chance to focus on the faithful without having to worry about the technological aspects of your venue.

Barco has a comprehensive set of visualization and processing solutions at your service to bring engaging experiences with full peace-of-mind.
